SEEK MILIT'A FOR INAUGURAL PARADE

Committee to Learn What States Will Be Represented.

Scott, Maj. Gen. T. H. Bliss, chief staff. Col. Harper, Maj. Gen. Hugh Scott and T. H. Bliss and Brig. Gen. C. A. Devol discussed the assigning of military organizations for the inaugural parade at a meeting held yesterday afternoon. It was suggested that Chairman Harper get th touch with the State governors at chairman; D. S. Porter, vice chairman.

The state governors at chairman and medals—D. J. Callanan, o'clock today and four indictments were chairman; D. S. Porter, vice chairman.

The army officers told Col. Harper that atil they are advised definitely just what number of troops and college military organizations will be on hand for the parade it will be impossible for t. m to draw any specific plans for the str... According to Chairman Harer the first work of today will be write letters to the governors and ob-tain the information desired by the mili-tary committee. The heads of the various colleges who have written the in-ugural committee for a place in the parade will also be communicated with an endeavor to ascertain just what attendance they will furnish in the way of military forces.

military committee cannot make finite announcements relative to any alignment of national State or scho troops as they are of the opinion that the work attached to this particular sec-tion of the parade is a very uncertain proposition until every organization that expects to participate is reasonably sure that it will be on hand

The heavy expenses to be incurred by the movement of troops here for the maugural celebration will be borne by national and State governments, according to the advice of the military com At the meeting of the advisory committee held yesterday morning at inauguarl headquarters, Col. Harper made it plain that unless the historical pageant that has been urged for the parade is a self-sustaining and practical undertaking, it will not be held.

Col. Harper expressed himself as absolutely in favor of the pageant.
Since it is a departure from regular inaugural features, he said that every de-tail of the proposed pageant must be thoroughly investigated and found to be within the limits of practicability and must not interfere with the other arrangements in a financial way. He said rangements in a financial way. He said that out of the $100,000 that is needed to give the regular inaugural celebration, must be paid every cent of expense, but if it can be arranged to execute an historical feature and keep expenditures within this amount he feels confident that a spectacular feature of floats picturizations, the historical programs of Angelse. e historical progress of America offered spectators at the or ming celebration. The special social committee appointed Col. Harper to plan an appropriate tertainment feature in place of the sal ball, has decided to hold up its final decision for a week. The committee declared that in the past few days several excellent suggestions for an enservant excellent suggestions for an entertainment have been offered and that it will consider the new ideas along with the ones that have been occupying its attention since its organization before asking President Wilson for an approval easing National March & Milliams & Moreover, 22 and 20 and tee declared that in the past few days sking President Wilson for an approval of an entertainment idea.
